DOVER, Jan 21—Governor Hall was installed in office to day His inaugural address deplores the continued depression in business, which could not be attributed to misconduct in state affairs but to the unwise national policy of the government and inflated currency which has shown us the wisdom of a circulating medium based exclusively upon gold and silver

Foolish and Arbitrary

ALBANY, N Y Jan 21—An attempt was made in the Democratic caucus to night to pass resolutions protesting against granting a certificate of election to Senator Conkling on the ground that certain sections of the state constitution providing for enumeration of the people of the state each ten years after 1855 and the reapportionment of senatorial and assembly districts have not been complied with and that the present legislature is there fore merely de facto, not de jure The resolution was adopted

BIGAMY IN THE TERRITORIES

A Bill made Necessary by the Recent Mormon Decision

WASHINGTON Jan 20—Edmunds, in the senate to day reported for Christiancy who is sick from the judiciary committee as a substitute for the pending bill a new measure amending the revised statutes so as to provide that every person who has a husband or wife living who in a territory or other place over which the United States has exclusive jurisdiction marries another whether married or single and any man who hereafter simultaneously or on the same day marries more than one woman in a territory or other place over which the United States has exclusive jurisdiction shall be deemed guilty of bigamy and be punished by a fine of not more than $500 and by imprisonment not more than five years But this section shall not extend to any person by reason of any former marriage whose husband or wife by such marriage is absent for successive years and is not known to such person to be living, nor to any person by reason of any former marriage which has been dissolved by decree of competent court nor to any person by reason of any former marriage which has been pronounced void by decree of a competent court on the ground of nullity of marriage contract The foregoing provisions are not to affect the prosecution or punishment of any offense already committed against the present law The president is authorized to grant amnesty to such classes of offenders against the anti polygamy law on such conditions and under such limitations as he shall think proper but no such amnesty shall have effect unless the conditions thereof shall have been complied with The issue of plural marriages, known as Mormon marriages in cases where such marriages have been solemnized according to the rites of the Mormon sect in any territory of the United States, and if such issue shall have been born before the 1st of November 1879 are legitimate and shall be entitled to all the rights of heirs and next of kin of their parents Polygamists are disqualified from performing jury duty Placed on the calendar

Retrial Asked in the Mormon Bigamy Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan 21—George Reynolds, the Utah polygamist, whose case was recently decided in U S supreme court, filed to day through his counsel a petition for a rehearing upon the ground that his sentence in the lower court to two years imprisonment, with hard labor, was illegal and contrary to the provisions of sections 53 and 52 of the Revised Statutes. It is true that the statute says nothing about hard labor but that point was not raised at all in this court and it is very improbable that the petitioner's plea for rehearing will be granted

THE RENO INQUIRY

Further Testimony before the Commission at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan 20—In the Reno inquiry to day Major Reno and his counsel asked leave to subpena two more witnesses (making twenty-four in all) namely, J Scott Payne and Sergeant Delesey of Co I 7th cavalry The latter was present on the battlefield and under Reno at the time of the massacre The court reserved decision

The scout F F Girard, continued his testimony, and was cross-examined by Recorder Lee The principal point made was that Custer gave Reno the following order when standing within a few feet of him "Major Reno you will advance and try to overtake the Indians, and when you do so charge them Take the scouts with you" This contradicts the testimony of Lieut Wallace that the order was given by Col Cook When the advance was made and the Indians began to troop up to meet Reno the latter checked his horse and his command did the same Witness then rode off to tell Custer about the approach of the Indians The witness was closely questioned on this point and said that after telling Cook whom he met to bear this news to Custer he rode back to Reno's command and advanced with them but in the rear of the column When he caught up the skirmish line was formed and the horses were in the timber in charge of the horse holders The men advanced at once and fighting began About ten minutes later the retreat began with the order "Men to their horses! the Indians are in our rear" One of the captains gave the order, and in a minute the men were on their way across the river Girard made a correction in his testimony as to the time when the command began the retreat On Saturday he said ten minutes after 1 he now said ten minutes after 2 This explains Reno's delay of an hour in getting to Custer Girard was sharply interrogated concerning this change of testimony and said he had yesterday refreshed his memory by reading old correspondence on the point He believed his memory had not failed on other points It was not an act of cowardice for Reno's troops to move out of the timber but he believed they would have been safer to remain

The court here adjourned it being announced that Major Reno might summon the two witnesses he desired

CHICAGO Jan 21

In the Reno inquiry to day some time was consumed in debate between counsel as to whether the witness Girard had Indian children and whether his testimony on that account was admissible The latter was decided in the negative Witness testified that Custer on seeing Indians running away shouted "Who the mischief ordered out that command?"

[illegible] 7th cavalry testified that on the 25th and 26th of June 1876 he was 2d lieutenant in command of a party of scouts under Custer On the 25th he was detached from the main troop being away with the scouts He did not know what troops were assigned to Reno but he had about 20 men He described the maneuvers of the forces The Indians were in greater numbers than he had ever before seen He recounted the advance and retreat of Reno much as Gilbert had done and said that the horses and men were greatly fatigued The troops were badly [illegible] on their retreat Adjourned

TAX TITLES

An Important Legal Decision Relating to Southern Lands Sold for Taxes During the War

(BY TELEGRAPH.)

WASHINGTON Jan 21—Supreme court decision No 102 J De Treville plaintiff in error vs Robert Smalls in error to the circuit court of the United States for the district of South Carolina This was a suit to recover possession of a certain tract of land in the town of Beaufort, S C, sold for taxes during the late war by the U S district commissioner under act of congress for the collection of taxes in insurrectionary districts passed March 13 1863 The case was brought here on a writ of error to test the validity of the so called tax sale title by virtue of which more than half the land in Beaufort county is now held It is maintained by the former holder of the lands in controversy that congress levying tax and imposing a penalty of 70 per cent upon delinquents, is in violation of the second section of the first article of the constitution that the proceedings of the commissioners prior to the sale were irregular, and that the certificates given by them to purchasers are invalidated conveyances of title This court, however, sustains the judgments of the lower tribunals by holding that the act of congress in question was not unconstitutional, and that tax sale certificates are themselves presumptive evidence of all antecedent facts essential to their validity and that they can be overthrown only by showing that the property which they conveyed was not subject to tax that taxes upon it had been paid previous to the sale or that it had been redeemed In the present case no evidence is offered sufficient to rebut the presumptive regularity and validity of the tax sale certificates, and the judgment of the circuit court is therefore affirmed This decision as stated, will quiet the title to more than 2 000 pieces of property in South Carolina

AGRICULTURAL

Good Stock and Hard Times

A Burlington correspondent of the Western Rural states that the present hard times are doing more than all the papers have been able to accomplish in agitation in teaching the farmers that there is more money in blooded stock than in scrubs The majority of farmers need this cudgel of adversity to drive them into the use of improved stock The best breeds of cattle sheep and hogs have been well represented in southern Wisconsin for the past fifteen years giving farmers a chance to buy pure bred males or high grades at moderate prices to cross on their native stock This gives them all the practical value of these improved breeds at little cost but so far as my observation extends not one farmer in a hundred has availed himself of this opportunity They had rather lose twenty five dollars on every steer they sell than pay fifty dollars for a Durham bull I cannot think of more than six men within as many miles of this place who have used thoroughbred Durham bulls to any extent, and should say they had made fully six times as much as their neighbors who raise scrubs I saw one of these men drive five steers on the scales which averaged 2045 pounds and brought $125 apiece His next door neighbor was offered $45 apiece for steers one year older Ask any farmer if there is any money in Jerseys and he will tell you they are too small and worthless for beef But I notice that the few men who are raising grade Jerseys get from two to four times the price of natives for their grade heifers One sold five yearlings the past year at $50 each another ten young heifers at nearly the same price another sold three-year olds at $60 to $100 apiece Was there any hard times in these sales?

In raising hogs a larger proportion of farmers have availed themselves of the use of pure bred males yet not one in ten to the extent they would have found it profitable The few who have raised pure breeds have never yet found the price of pork so low as to yield them no profit, though I do not think the most of our farmers at present are realizing more than twenty five cents a bushel for the corn fed to their hogs A young farmer near here commenced several years since to raise Berkshires obtaining at a low price a few pigs descended directly from the best herd in the state He has made fully double what he would have done from common stock I saw him one day bring a lot of hogs to the station for shipment and among them was one sow that having ceased to breed, he was selling for pork She outweighed any common hog of the same dimensions by at least 100 pounds and the owner remarked that she had brought at least $500 to the farm since he had owned her He had sold a large number of her pigs as breeders at about double the price of common stock and when raised for pork they matured more rapidly and gave more meat for the same food by at least one third than ordinary hogs The low price of pork and the prevalence of hog diseases have depressed the prices of blooded stock so that as good a pure bred Berkshire pig as any farmer could ask for can be had for $5 This is an opportunity that may not occur again in a generation for farmers in moderate means to start herds and to secure the benefits of generations of careful breeding in improving the common stock One thing we may as well make up our minds to and that is that no man can afford to raise poor stock in hard times

Mixed Farming

(From the Prairie Farmer.)

Some principal reasons why a system of mixed farming, which includes the raising of stock largely is surer and at the same time more profitable is that thus the farm is kept up to its original fertility and often to increased fertility This farmer never makes an entire failure of crops however bad the season His fat stock gives him cash returns twice a year if necessary, once in the spring from winter feeding, and again in the autumn from pasturage In the case of sheep this gain is added to by the wool sold in the summer His dairy and poultry yard will furnish no small sum in the spring summer and autumn The milk, butter and cheese and a well kept vegetable garden will furnish one half the living of the family These rules as stated, are general ones They will apply to all sections of the country north south east and west being modified only by climatic conditions and the adaptation of certain animals and plants to a climate The rule will apply always The farmer who raises the greatest variety of crops or animals which his soil is capable of sustaining is all things considered the best and most successful

After a long discussion on motion of Windom the bill was laid aside

The patent bill was also laid aside and the naval appropriation bill considered Amendments increasing the house appropriations $81 000 were adopted The bill was then laid aside until to morrow when Blaine will speak on it

Blaine then said he would move amendments that the president appoint three naval officers from the active or retired list as a board to consider and report to the next congress the number of officers of the line and staff and warrant needed for the navy with 7500 men and that hereafter promotion above the grade of ensign cease That the same board shall report whether any of the present navy yards may be dispensed with or expenses be otherwise decreased without impairing the efficiency of the navy Also that after July 1883 only so many naval academy graduates annually may be appointed midshipmen as are required to fill vacancies to be determined by the academic board on the basis of their standing in the graduating class ordered printed Adjourned

House

Immediately after the reading of the Journal Potter called up for action the resolution presented by him yesterday directing the committee on investigation of election frauds to inquire into cipher dispatches and appropriating $10 000 to defray the expenses of such inquiry He yielded however for some preliminary matters

Stephens from the committee on coinage introduced a bill to authorize the coinage of goloid metric dollars fives and fractions of dollars referred

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the cipher resolution

Potter moved the previous question which was seconded and the main question was ordered thus leaving one hour for discussion which was thereupon opened by Potter who said

Mr Speaker I offer this resolution because I was instructed to offer it I do not propose to discuss it except to say a few words in reply to an attack made on me by the gentleman from Michigan (Conger) I was not in the house at the time and when the gentleman's attention was called to that fact he stated that I had left the house to avoid hearing him If the gentleman thought so he was mistaken I think I listened to the sprightly and amiable utterances of the gentleman from Michigan with as much satisfaction as any gentleman in this house The gentleman accused me because I had not permitted an investigation of these dispatches

Mr Speaker it is as open to the gentlemen from Michigan and has been ever since this session of congress assembled and to every member of this house as it is to myself to propose such an investigation He did not propose it no one on that side of the house proposed it and for reasons which perhaps it is not difficult to divine but at any rate for reasons satisfactory to themselves No gentleman on this side of the house had proposed it and the gentleman from Michigan said I had not permitted them to do so Mr Speaker I neither had power to prevent them nor had sought to prevent them The only wish I had expressed on the subject was that if such resolution was introduced it might be referred to another committee than that of which I was a member but I neither sought to influence anybody nor prevent any one from action in respect to it I simply refused to volunteer to introduce such a resolution myself and for these reasons at the last session of congress I introduced the resolution for the committee to inquire into certain alleged and confessed wrongs in Florida and Louisiana which had taken place under color of state law and which were said to have been perpetrated under the influence of federal visitors and under the protection of federal troops and which wrongs the electoral commission had decided it was impossible for the states to rectify or recall Such a matter was a proper subject for congressional legislation for if congress could not correct a wrong which had taken place in the states themselves it could at least adopt such legislation as would afford those states opportunity to correct and recall the action taken under color of their law It was therefore a proper subject for investigation and when I introduced that resolution I declined to yield to an amendment which the gentleman from Maine (Hale) desired to offer proposing inquiry into certain cipher dispatches in Oregon because I insisted that it was not in the province of congress to inquire into individual wrong of any citizen which it could neither prevent nor punish and at any rate that investigation ought not to be overslaughed by any such inquiry I did not then suspect the existence of dispatches which have been since published but the analogy between these dispatches and those which the gentleman from Maine sought to have inquired into is perfect, and the house having sustained me in my view of the question it was not for me now to set on foot an investigation of the kind nor to prevent the completion of work which I had in hand by any such inquiry Besides Mr Speaker there were private personal reasons why I did not think I ought to set on foot any such investigation The house may recollect that when I introduced a resolution of inquiry a leading independent journal of the country declared that I did so in pursuance of a bargain between Gov Tilden and myself in which I was to have his support There are gentlemen in this chamber now who know that when I was called upon on the evening previous to the introduction of that resolution to wait upon the joint committee of the Democratic caucus I was absolutely ignorant that I had been selected for that work and I had no more reason to suspect that I would be connected with it than any other gentlemen in the house The truth is that not only did I not have a bargain with Gov Tilden but I had none with anyone else I served on that committee simply because I was invited to serve by a joint committee of the Democratic caucus and because that in 1876, as a member of a committee of this house I had visited Louisiana and had very profound convictions alike of the danger and wrong of the returning board's action I served therefore on these accounts and on these alone and I not only had no understanding or bargain with anybody on the face of the earth but I sought for no promise or assistance and had none and yet Mr Speaker that conjecture has gone all over the United States and nine tenths of the people who have any opinion on the subject believe that I am a member of the committee of investigation as the confidant and agent of Governor Tilden Beyond that, although I had endeavored to conduct the investigation with absolute impartiality, and fairness so much so that I do not believe that anybody familiar with the record will rise to claim that such has not been the fact and so that during all that time I have observed the utmost reticence in respect to the objects and purposes of the committee yet there has been no unworthy and partisan speech that has not been falsely put into my mouth and no mean or outrageous suggestion in the conduct of the committee that has not been attributed to me Under such circumstances for me to volunteer an investigation into these cipher dispatches was to have it said that I was doing so in the interest of and for the purpose of protecting and whitewashing those whom it might affect And beyond that sir there are in my state some persons who believe that I or my friends have a cause of grievance against Mr Tilden who if I volunteered any movement of the kind would ascribe my action to personal dislike and spite If the gentlemen will look at the New York Tribune of Saturday week they will see it declared that the probable cause of this resolution is the object of personally injuring Mr Tilden For these reasons sir I did not feel called upon to volunteer any action on this subject I have not volunteered it and I introduce the resolution on which I [illegible] because without [illegible] of mine I have been instructed to do so and I THE BLOW AT MORMONISM

FULL TEXT OF THE RECENT DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Chief Justice Waite The question raised is whether religious belief can be accepted as a justification of an overt act made criminal by the law of the land The inquiry is not as to the power of congress to prescribe criminal laws for the territories but as to the guilt of one who knowingly violates a law which has been properly enacted he entertaining a religious belief that the law is wrong Congress cannot pass a law for the government of the territories which shall prohibit the free exercise of religion The first amendment to the constitution expressly forbids such legislation Religious freedom is guaranteed everywhere throughout the dominion of the United States so far as congressional interference is concerned The question to be determined is whether the law now under consideration comes within this prohibition The word religion is not defined in the constitution We must go elsewhere therefore to ascertain its meaning and nowhere more appropriately we think than to the history of the times in the midst of which the provision was adopted The precise point of inquiry is What is the religious freedom that has been guaranteed In the preamble of the act introduced in the Virginia house of delegates by Jefferson in 1785

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

is defined and after reciting that to suffer the civil magistrate to intrude his power into the field of opinion and to restrain the profession or propagation of principles on the supposition of their ill tendency is a dangerous fallacy which at once destroys all religious liberty It is declared that it is time enough for the rightful purposes of civil government for its officers to interfere when the principles break out into overt acts against peace and good order In these two sentences is found the true distinction between what properly belongs to the church and what to the state In a little more than a year after the passage of this statute the convention met which prepared the constitution of the United States Five of the states while adopting the constitution proposed amendments Three—New Hampshire New York and Virginia—included in one form or another, a declaration of religious freedom in changes they desired to have made as did also North Carolina where the convention at first declined to ratify the constitution until the proposed amendments were acted upon Accordingly at the first session of the first congress an amendment was under consideration It was proposed with others by Mr Madison It met the views of the advocates of religious freedom and was adopted

JEFFERSON

Afterward in reply to an address to him by a committee of the Danbury Baptist Association took occasion to say "Believing with you that religion is a matter which lies solely between man and his God that he owes account to none other for his faith or his worship, that the legislative power of government reach actions only and not opinions I contemplate with sovereign reverence that act of the whole American people which declared that their legislature should make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, thus building a wall of separation between church and state Adhering to the expression of the supreme will of the nation in behalf of the rights of conscience, I shall see with sincere satisfaction the progress of those sentiments which tend to restore man to all his natural rights in opposition to his social duties" Coming as this does, from an acknowledged leader of the advocates of the measure it may be accepted almost as an authoritative declaration of the scope and effect of the amendment thus secured Congress was deprived of all legislative power over mere opinion but was left free to reach actions which were in violation of social duties or subversive of good order From that day to this we think it may safely be said there never has been a time in any state of the Union when polygamy has not been

AN OFFENSE AGAINST SOCIETY

cognizable by the civil courts and punishable with more or less severity In the face of all this evidence it is impossible to believe that the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom was intended to prohibit legislation in respect to this most important element in social life—marriage while from its very nature the sacred obligation is nevertheless in most civilized nations a civil contract and usually regulated by law Upon it society may be said to be built and out of its fruits spring the social relations and social obligations and duties with which the government is required to deal In fact according as monogamous or polygamous marriages are allowed do we find the principles on which the government of a people to a greater or less extent rests An exceptional colony of polygamists under exceptional leaders may sometimes exist for a time without appearing to disturb the social condition of the people who surround it but there cannot be a doubt unless restricted by some form of constitution it is within the legitimate scope of the power of every civil government to determine whether polygamy or monogamy shall be

THE LAW OF SOCIAL LIFE

Under its dominion In our opinion the statute immediately under consideration is within the legislative power of congress It is constitutional and valid as prescribing the rule of action for all those residing in the territories and in places over which the United States have exclusive control This being so, the only question which remains is whether those who make polygamy a part of their religion are excepted from the operations of the statute If they are then those who do not make polygamy a part of their religious belief may be found guilty and punished while those who do must be acquitted and go free This would be introducing a new element into our criminal law Laws are made for the government of actions and while they cannot interfere with mere religious belief and opinions they may with practices Suppose one religiously believed that human sacrifices were a necessary part of religious worship would it be seriously contended that the civil government under which he lived could not interfere to prevent the sacrifice? Or if a wife religiously believed it was her duty to burn herself upon the funeral pile of her husband would it be beyond the power of the civil government to prevent her carrying her belief into practice So here society under the exclusive dominion of the United States prescribes as the law of its organization that

PLURAL MARRIAGES SHALL NOT TO BE ALLOWED

Can a man excuse his practices to the contrary because of his religious belief To permit this would be to make doctrines of religious belief superior to the law of the land and in effect to permit every citizen to become a law unto himself Government could exist only in name under such circumstances Criminal intent is a necessary element of crime but every man is presumed to intend the necessary and legitimate consequences of what he knowingly does Here the accused knew that he had been once married and that his first wife was living He also knew that his second marriage was forbidden by law When therefore he married the second time he is presumed to have intended to break the law and the breaking of the law is a crime Every act necessary to constitute a crime was knowingly done and the crime was therefore knowingly committed Ignorance of a fact may sometimes be taken as evidence of a want of criminal intent but not ignorance of law The only defense of the accused in this case is his belief that the law ought not to have been enacted It matters not that his belief was a part of his religion it was still a belief only Upon a careful consideration of the whole case we are satisfied that no error was committed by the court below and judgment is consequently affirmed

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 22, 1879

A DANGEROUS JOB.

We have adverted heretofore to the effort which is being made to abolish the office of surveyor general in the different states and territories. Later information indicates that the effort is taking a somewhat new direction. It now appears as part of a plan of attack on the value and accuracy of all the surveys heretofore made. The main fight has been made before the committee on appropriations, since the committee on public lands would have nothing to do with it. It is engineered by persons who are seeking for purposes of their own to change entirely the character of all national surveys. It is gravely maintained, so a recent dispatch says, that taken in whole and in part, the surveys heretofore executed throughout all the states and territories are valueless. It is asserted that, in fact, no one holding under these surveys has a perfect title; that the topographical sketches of the many millions of sections and minor divisions, as filed in the office, and by which lands have been described, bought and sold, are utterly worthless, and that the subdivisions of these extensive surveys throughout the states and territories are not legal evidence of the boundaries of the tracts they purport to inclose. A short time since we had by telegraph a statement that Gen. Humphreys, chief of engineers of the United States army, had written a letter denouncing the scheme as an effort to introduce a system which would force the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars. There is other information that what is really in the minds of those who are pushing the scheme is the ultimate substitutition of new surveys under the new system for all heretofore made throughout the country. In fact, though this is carefully concealed in the bill and disavowed by those who are pushing, it is apparent on the face of the proceeding. The new surveys are to be based on the geodetic system; that is, the curvature of the earth is to be taken into account. A special gives information that "the expectation of the movers in this scheme, which can only lead to endless confusion in land titles, and to the unsettling of affairs in every community, is that it can be brought out of the committee, attached to an appropriation bill, and be forced through more readily, because time for discussion is limited." It is apparent that great mischiefs lurk under this scheme. By abolishing the local offices surveys will be stopped in those localities where they are needed to meet the wants of advancing settlements; and by introducing a new and different system which assumes that the old one is wholly inaccurate and must be corrected, land titles everywhere will be more or less disturbed, endless litigation will arise, and the classes who subsist by working up such jobs through legislation will reap a boundless harvest. The strangest fact in connection with the matter is that the authors of the scheme appear to have won over the sub committee on appropriations wholly to their views.

THE PORTER CASE.

An under current of some interest is noted in recent developments of the Fitz John Porter case. It is stated that when Major Asa Gardner was appointed recorder of the commission he shared in the view that Gen. Pope's campaign was a series of hap hazard movements ending in disaster, and that Gen. Porter had been made a scapegoat. It is stated that had Major Gardner continued in this opinion the case would probably have been concluded by this time. But on studying the campaign of August, 1862, the recorder arrived at the conclusion that the sentence of the court was substantially just, and that Gen. Pope's campaign resulted disastrously through a combination of subordinate officers, amounting almost to a conspiracy. Major Gardner had always been known as a strong McClellan man, but in studying up the case he has unearthed information and documentary evidence which inculpates McClellan as well as General Franklin. The public have not hitherto known how narrowly McClellan and Franklin escaped, until Major Gardner presented copies of Secretary Stanton's letter to Gen. Halleck, Halleck's reply, and President Lincoln's order directing an investigation. The production of these materials for history, it is said, has exploded a mine under the petitioner's very feet, and has brought on a crisis that may possibly develop the whole story of the underlying military intrigue that enters into the case. We have these details through eastern journals; and though they may be much exaggerated it is not unlikely that they constitute one of the reasons why the inquiries of the commission are protracted so long.

SENATORS ELECTED.

Senator Conkling is re-elected without opposition in his party, a result which the country fully expected. After an unusually exciting contest Gen. Logan has won the Illinois senatorship, his skill as a politician giving him a triumph over Oglesby, the present senator. Gen. Shields returns to the senate, this time from Missouri. He was senator from Illinois from 1849 to 1855, and from Minnesota from 1858 to 1860. As he is now only sixty-eight years of age he may yet have a senatorial career from other states. The term for which he is now elected lasts only til. March, and he will take his seat immediately. For the full term Missouri elects Col. Vest, who is quite unknown except that he was a confederate officer of no great distinction. He will take the place of Cockrell. Cameron's election in Pennsylvania is taken as a thing of course. Nevada re-elected John P. Jones some days ago. In Indiana Voorhees is elected. The Nationals hold the balance of power in the legislature, and it was anticipated that Voorhees might find difficulty in obtaining their support. But it is probable that since the success of resumption they see their occupation gone as a party, and therefore are disposed to give up organized effort on a separate basis. In Wisconsin there is a lively contest between rival candidates, Carpenter showing more strength than was at first conceded to him. After March 4th the senate will contain 33 Republicans, 42 Democrats and 1 Independent.

The fact that America not only sells Europe her bread, but that long lines of articles manufactured in American workshops are now actually selling even in the principal manufacturing cities of England, recalls a letter addressed at the beginning of our secession war to the crowned heads of Europe by the distinguished French litterateur and statesman, Lamartine, advising that they unite in a common effort to break down the rising western nation in that crisis of its affairs, since, if it should recover and preserve its union and strength, the time would come when Europe would simply be the commercial dependency of the American people.

Contributions to the discussion on the "Sabbath or Sunday" question, "the Seventh Day or the First," accumulate on our table. Two such communications of considerable length have been printed, and several others are already received. Some of them we shall print as soon as we find room. It is striking proof of the interest taken in religious and theological questions that any inquiry thereon is sure to gain attention and bring on general discussion. Readers will recall as further proof of this fact the controversy had over endless punishment a year or so ago.

HACKLEMAN'S APOLOGY DISSECTED.

SALEM, Jan. 17, 1879.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Mr. J. H. Hackleman endeavors to throw dust in the eyes of the public in the matter of the lock bonds. He knows the facts perfectly well, and knows ex-Treasurer Brown was far more culpable in that respect than the investigating committee reported. The pretense that he could not have paid the bonds in obedience to the mandate of the court, as he would have had no voucher, and that the order didn't say when to pay, is worthy of little Tony. The paid bond, paid at any time, was the best kind of voucher for the payment. The fact about it was that the bonds should have been paid some two years before they were and some $7,500 interest saved to the state (instead of the $1,050 found by the investigating committee), which interest was paid to the treasurer's principal bondsman. In 1874 there was $50,000 in the treasury to pay on those bonds. But they were owned by the treasurer's leading surety, and he and the treasurer had both bonds and money. Manifestly they were losing nothing by keeping both, and the treasurer went on paying him the interest and they went on keeping both money and bonds. The legislature of 1874, finding this state of things directed the loaning of the money. The treasurer and his bondsman, in the name of the latter, brought suit to prevent the former from obeying the law. In the petition for order restraining the treasurer, the bondsman described himself as the owner of the $50,000 lock bonds upon which the money was payable, and the entire issue of $200,000. The judge of the circuit denied the petition in May, 1875. On the 19th of July notice of appeal to the supreme court was served, and on that very day a term of the supreme court was commenced. Had the appeal been taken at an earlier day it would have brought the matter before the court for determination at the July term. The interests of all parties ought to have required this, and would have done so had either the treasurer or the owner of the bonds desired to stop the payment of interest. At the December term for that year the case was argued by the attorney of the bondsman and by nobody for the state, the judgment of the court below reversed, and on the 16th day of February, 1876, an order made requiring the treasurer to pay the $50,000 upon the bonds described by the treasurer's security. All the time it was manifest that the proceeding was for delay and the court's order was made peremptory. But the money was not entered as paid until the 9th day of September, two days before the legislature met, and interest was paid up to that time. Where the money really was during this two years, the reader can judge as well as I. It purported to be in the treasury. Anybody who believes it lay there idle is welcome to his opinion. That the treasurer and his surety acted with full understanding, each with the other, in this proceeding in court, there can be no doubt. And there can be no doubt if the bonds had been controlled by strangers they would have been paid in 1874.

But isn't it weak and cheeky for Mr. Hackleman, the assistant treasurer, $6,000 plunderer of the land fund, and member of the crumb picking brigade, who refused to answer the questions of the investigating committee concerning the mismanagement of the treasury department, to volunteer as witness against the failings of the committee? And while he is on the stand, won't he tell us how many warrants were bought by money from the treasury, and for whose benefit? Where the $50,000 lock bond money and other moneys supposed to be in the treasury were, and how much money the treasury ring "made" during the four years? How it happened that a provision reported by the ways and means committee, in 1876, appropriating the bounty and relief levy, was smothered, and upwards of $60,000 of those funds left idle in the treasury (supposing they lay there) for two years, while the state paid ten per cent. interest on a like sum of warrants which, but for the manipulations of the treasurer, would have been redeemed with the money there, and many other similar questions, it would be interesting to have this witness answer while he is on the stand.

I am assured that it is false that Mr. Galloway expressed satisfaction at the action of the treasurer in delaying the payment of the lock bonds. That committee, of which Capt. Apperson was chairman, was empowered only to examine the books and accounts of the state treasurer for the last two years. Their authority did not extend to that matter. That of the investigating committee, of which Mr. Galloway was also a member, did. And if that committee had had the time and the clue to treasury operations, and witnesses, like Hackleman, who knew, hadn't refused, they would have found out one hundred times more than they reported.

ROANOKE.

The Upper Missouri.

A company was organized at Helena, M. T. last fall, for the purpose of navigating the Missouri river above the falls to within 12 miles of Helena. The capital stock is $100,000. The Helena Herald says:

The company have a large force of men engaged in removing obstructions from the river channel, building wing dams, etc. They have determined upon the immediate purchase of two steel steamboats, one for above and one for below the falls, and for this purpose an agent with full authority will start for Pittsburg in a few days. One boat will be loaded upon the other and brought to the foot of the falls, where it will probably arrive by May 15th, and by June 15th, 1879, the first steamboat will be afloat on the waters of the upper Missouri.

CITY.

NEARLY A SHOOTING SCRAPE — A row occurred last evening about 5 o'clock at the Cosmopolis saloon, at the corner of Second and Alder. It seems that Alf. Carr, the proprietor of the saloon, and a member of the sporting fraternity named Thomas Shortel, became engaged in a personal difficulty. The quarrel arose over some difference regarding a game at cards. Blows succeeded high words and Shortel drew a pistol and attempted to shoot Carr. This he no doubt would have done had it not been for the timely interposition of a young man named Asa Hamilton, who was present when the row commenced. Hamilton caught hold of Shortel and endeavored to wrest the pistol from his hand, which led to a desperate struggle between the two, resulting in Hamilton getting the weapon away from Shortel. Other parties interfered, and the row was quelled. Two officers reached the scene a few moments after the row. Meantime Carr left the saloon, as no one was willing to make complaint and the officers saw nothing, no arrest was made. At last accounts the participants had not been arrested.

Dr. McBride was in Portland less than a year ago.

THE SEASON CLOSED.—Owing to the late severe weather Capt. Rockwell, in charge of the coast survey on the Columbia river, has been compelled to give up field work for the season, and the survey barge Kincheloe has been put into winter quarters at Albina, conveniently near Capt. ARRAH NA POGUE.—This old but ever popular Irish drama was produced last evening. The piece was produced in very good style, and those who witnessed the play had no reason to regret having attended. The cast included the full strength of the stock company. To-night "Arrah Na Pogue" will be repeated for the last time. No one should fail to witness this play.

O. C. R. R. EXTENSION.

It will be remembered that Mr. R. Koehler, agent for German capitalists who are interested in the O. & C. R. R. and O. C. R. R., was called some months ago to Frankfort-on-the-Main to report at a meeting of the bondholders, upon the general affairs of the road. Mr. Koehler returned by the Oregon on her last trip. He confirms a telegraphic statement, which we published at the time of the meeting, to the effect that the bondholders had decided to extend the West Side or O. C. R. R. to Corvallis, a distance of fifty miles from its present terminus at Saint Joseph, in Yamhill county. He further informs us that while in New York on his return from Germany, Mr. Villard and himself contracted for steel rails, the same in pattern and weight as those on the Central Pacific road between Sacramento and San Francisco, and for all the necessary rolling stock and motive power. The rails were completed at the rolling mills at Philadelphia on the 21st inst., and will be shipped for Portland immediately. Since his return Mr. Koehler has contracted for ties, and has put in the field a locating party, which is now busy in the vicinity of McMinnville. The road will go by way of Amity and Dixie. Grading will commence as soon as right of way is obtained.

SUPREME COURT.

MONDAY, Jan. 20.

The court met pursuant to adjournment at 1 30 P. M. Present, all the justices.

On motion of C. A. Scheibrede Esq., James W. Howes was admitted to practice in all the courts of this state, on a certificate from the supreme court of the district of Columbia.

T. M. Reed, appellant, vs S. M. Gentry and Jno. Coppel respondents; appeal from Benton county. This is a suit in equity, and the plaintiff for cause of suit alleges, substantially, that appellant and respondent Gentry, in September 1876, entered into a contract by which said Gentry leased certain lands of appellant for the period of two years. Appellant was to have one third of the grain raised on the land, delivered in the warehouse at Corvallis, and one half of the hay delivered in the barn. Appellant was to hold all the grain on the place as security for the faithful performance of the contract on the part of respondent Gentry. It was alleged that the respondent, Gentry, had violated his contract in various ways to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $810. Plaintiff filed his bond and had an injunction issued and a receiver appointed, who took charge of all the crops and harvested the same.

The defendant denied all the allegations of the complaint and alleged that he had been damaged by the careless manner in which said grain was harvested by the plaintiff in the sum of $775, and that two thirds of all the grain belonged absolutely to defendant. The cause coming on for trial, the court ordered the following facts to be inquired into by the verdict of a jury:

First—Did defendant, Gentry, violate the terms of said contract, and if so, how much was plaintiff damaged thereby.

Second—Did defendant Coppel, purchase said crop in good faith for a valuable consideration, and without notice or knowledge of said contract and that Gentry had violated the same?

Third—Did plaintiff wrongfully take possession of the crops described, and if so, how much were defendants damaged thereby?

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendants on all of the above propositions in the sum of $375. Whereupon the court entered judgment in favor of defendants for the sum of $375 and two-thirds of all the grain in the hands of the receiver.

Opinion by Prim, J. It is claimed by appellant that this decree is incorrect, inasmuch as it allows respondents to recover the full value of their interest in the crop and two thirds of the grain in the hands of the receiver in addition. Respondents, however, insist that the damages found by the jury were intended only to cover that portion of grain wasted by carelessness in harvesting the same. This view of the matter we think is incorrect and cannot be sustained. The presumption is that the verdict of the jury is as broad as the issues are upon which they were required to find and they are broad enough to cover the full value of respondents' interest in the grain. It would certainly be inequitable to allow respondents to recover the full value of their interest in the crops, in damages, and their proportion of the grain in addition.

We think, therefore, that the decree of the court below should be modified, so as to allow respondents to recover $375 damages and his costs and disbursements in the court below; that appellant recover his costs on appeal and be allowed to retain all the grain in the hands of the receiver.

S. A. Heilner & Co., apps., vs Union county, res. appeal from Union county. This was an action against respondent to recover damages resulting from the breaking down of a bridge whereby the goods, wares and merchandise of appellant were precipitated into the river and damaged.

Opinion by Prim, J.—A demurrer having been sustained to the complaint on the ground that it does not contain facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, the court rendered judgment against appellant for costs, from which judgment this appeal is taken. The respondent insists that the complaint is defective and insufficient, for the reason that it is not alleged therein that the county authorities had notice that said bridge was out of repair and in an unsafe and dangerous condition at the time the accident occurred. In the case of Mack vs City of Salem, 6 Or. 275, it was held that in order to maintain an action of this character against a municipal corporation on account of its streets being defective and out of repair, it must be alleged and proved that the corporation or its officers had notice of such defect, or at least a state of facts shown from which notice might be inferred. This rule we think applies with equal force to complaints in actions against counties for damages or injuries received on their roads and bridges. We think the allegations in the complaint are in sufficient to show negligence on the part of respondent or its officers. If a verdict had been taken in this case, the defective pleadings might probably have been cured; but it stands on demurrer and has no intendments or presumptions in its favor, and must be construed most strongly against the pleader. The facts constituting the negligence should be averred. The judgment of the court below will be affirmed.

Samuel Rich, plaintiff and app., vs P. P. Palmer, res; appeal from Douglas county.

This is a suit in equity to set aside a sheriff's deed made to defendant to land sold to said defendant by said sheriff for delinquent taxes. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff was the equitable owner of a large portion of the donation land claim of Wm. Sloan, that on the 18th day of July, 1874, the sheriff of Douglas county sold said premises for taxes to the defendant for the sum of $100; that the plaintiff after giving legal notice, redeemed said property on the 29th day of September, 1875; that defendant afterwards wrongfully and fraudulently obtained from said sheriff a tax deed to said premises, that said deed is fraudulent and void and a cloud upon his title, etc; and asks a decree, that said deed be canceled and held for nought. The answer denies all the material allegations of the complaint, denies that the plaintiff is the equitable owner to any portion of said land except what might arise from certain bonds for deeds executed by Wm. Sloan to plaintiff in 1852, embracing certain lots in the town of Scotsburg containing about one acre. The court below rendered a decree setting the deed aside as to the lots mentioned in the pleadings, and against the defendant for costs and disbursements. From this decision plaintiff appeals to this court.

Opinion by Boise, J.—We think the bonds described in the complaint are sufficient in form to invest the plaintiff with an equitable estate in the lands described in them, provided the maker of them, Wm. Sloan, had any estate to convey by them. It appears that Sloan held said lands as a donation, under an act of congress of 1850, and such bonds have been held sufficient to convey a good equitable title. And we think they are sufficient in this case to give the plaintiff such an estate in the land as to entitle him to redeem the same when sold for delinquent taxes.

It appears that a notice was served on the sheriff notifying him that plaintiff would redeem said premises on the 15th day of September, 1875, but that no attempt was made to redeem until the 29th day of September, 1875.

This, we think, was not a sufficient notice, because plaintiff failed to redeem at the proper time, but we think that, under section 87, page 767 of the code, no notice of redemption is necessary. It is urged by defendant that inasmuch as the redemption money was paid to the sheriff, there could be no valid redemption. But we think that the provision of the statute (code, page 767, section 90) that the sheriff should recite in the deed to the purchaser that no redemption has been made, clearly indicates that it was the intention of the legislature that the sheriff should receive the redemption money; if not, how could he be officially informed of the redemption?

The last question in this case to be decided by this court is, should the sheriff's deed be entirely set aside and canceled or only so far as the same affects the title of the appellant? Inasmuch as it was necessary that the plaintiff should redeem the whole premises to secure and save his own property, such redemption operated for the benefit of other owners in the land, on whom Rich might call to contribute, in proportion to their interest in the land, their share of the redemption money. We think he has a right to have the entire deed canceled. (See 6 Or., p. 339.) The decree of this court will be that the deed be entirely canceled, and that the appellant recover costs.

Abner Smith, an infant by Jno. B. Hines, guardian, appellant, vs Jno Harris, respondent, appeal from Benton county; judgment affirmed. Opinion by Boise, J.

State of Oregon, appellant vs Wm. Munds et al, respondents appeal from Douglas county; decree of the court below affirmed. Opinion by Kelly, C. J.

State of Oregon, appellant, vs Lawrence O'Neil, et al, respondents, appeal from Douglas county, decree of the court below affirmed. Opinion by Kelly, C. J.

State of Oregon, respondent, vs Archie Brown, appellant; cause on trial.

IS THERE NOT ANOTHER SIDE?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The reading of your sensible article on potatoes prompts me to ask in all seriousness if there is not another side to this question of Chinese labor, and if there is not a large number of people who have rights to be protected, as well as that small class who call themselves "citizen laborers." Our legislature has passed a law forbidding the employment of the Chinese on the public streets of a city, etc. It surely seems to me that it is a very grave question whether they have a right to make such a law. Have not the citizens of Portland—those who own the property and pay the taxes a right to get their work done as cheap as they can? There are some of us working men, poor men, who feel the burden of our taxes to be a very heavy one and some of us who think that our street improvements cost a great deal more than they ought. Now, by what right does the legislature say that we must pay a dollar and a half for that which we can get done for a dollar? Is not this class of legislation favoring one class at the expense of another? The largest number of the property holders in this city are poor people, laboring people and people in moderate circumstances. Why must the taxes upon their property be increased for the benefit of that particular class who handle the shovel and pick, or work with a horse and cart? My own conviction is that this outcry against cheap labor is utterly illogical and unreasonable. Nothing can be more absurd than the attempt to set a price upon any commodity by law, or by popular hue and cry. The laborer is no more entitled to this protection than any other man. It would be just as reasonable to pass a law forbidding the city to use a steam engine to break stones, or saw plank, or to buy lumber that was sawed by steam power, instead of by hand, as it is to forbid the use of Chinese labor. The law is an absurdity upon the face of it, and the wonder is that men of honesty and independence allowed it to pass, without at least saying so, even if they could not prevent it. The unreasonableness and stupidity of this cry against Chinese labor comes to a climax in a communication in the Standard of Saturday from "Wapato Lake." The writer complains that the work of clearing up the land is given to Chinese instead of to white men, and declares that it would be better "to give a white man $25 for doing a job of work than a Chinaman $12." One wonders how many acres of land this writer owns and has had cleared up at double the price that it was necessary to pay, simply to have the money "spent at home." Is it possible to make men see that this whole business is governed by an inflexible LAW, that no legislative enactments or popular outcry can ever annul or change? This is the law of compensation or profit. Commerce, trade, business, all use money for increase or profit, and for nothing else. There is no poetry, sentiment or philanthropy about these pursuits, neither can there be if they are to have any continuance and duration. There will be no business of any kind unless there is a profit in it. And land is cleared up at $12 an acre—if that is the price—because it will pay, while at $24 it will not pay, and will not be cleared up. Neither will the white man get his $24 nor the Chinaman his $12. Neither will the farmer add field to field, nor thousands of bushels of wheat to his annual crop. Neither will he want more harness, plows, wagons, reapers or blacksmith work. Without being allowed to increase his area of production he cannot build the new house he contemplated, but must live on in the old one with all its discomforts, without new furniture, carpets, cooking stove, parlor stove, piano, or anything of the kind. He cannot buy the new spring wagon he had half bargained for, and his neighbor that was to have made it for him and would soon have made a dozen more for other farmers, sees how things are working and discharges his journeymen on account of dull times. What is true of one farmer is true of all his neighbors. So there is a check and stagnation of every sort of business. No increase of freightage on the railroads, steamboats, no more demand for car builders, ship carpenters, draymen, &c., &c. This depressing influence extends to every department of industry and business in the land, and presses finally upon the "citizen laborer" as heavily as upon any one else. This is what a "Friend of the Whites" requires then by insisting that he and his friends shall have $24 for a job that a Chinaman will do for $12. The fact is, the Chinaman, by his cheap labor, is developing and enriching the whole country; he is stopping the encroachments of the forest on the open and unimproved lands which the white man never yet has done since he settled upon them. He is subduing thousands and thousands of acres of idle and useless lands, and literally making the wilderness to blossom as the rose. And because he does this at a price that the farmer can afford to pay, and does not demand a price that makes the work impossible, the "citizen laborer" sits by in idleness, grumbling and cursing poor John for ruining the country with his cheap Chinese labor.

Much more might be said upon other points of this question, and yet it is amazing that it is necessary to say so much even as this. The fear that the country will be overrun by Chinese is, in my judgment, groundless. They will not come unless they can make it pay. And we will not employ them unless we can make it pay us. Just as soon as any other class of laborers are cheaper and better they will be employed, and not until then.

The stupidity and impertinence of this interference with the business of the country has an illustration in a recent published correspondence with the projectors of a new railroad. No sooner does it appear that some enterprising and courageous men are in a fair way to start the building of a rail road for the benefit of a remote and outlying section of our country, than some little soul comes forward to throw impediments in the way by demanding that no Chinese labor should be used in its construction. A very proper answer to such a man would be that this is an enterprise undertaken at the best with very limited means and one that requires the most rigid economy at every step; that it is for the benefit of a wide scope of country and great diversity of interest; that its success and permanency depended largely upon the cheapness with which the road is constructed and operated and that with this object steadfastly in view, it is the purpose of the managers always and everywhere, to use that labor which is the cheapest and the best, whether it is black or white, red or brown.

My article was suggested by your comments upon the matter of raising potatoes, and I will close by reference to a recent conversation on the same subject. Last fall I chanced to be traveling through the mining regions of the mountains of Eastern Oregon. The landlady at one of the hotels gave us some nice potatoes for breakfast, and on inquiry I found that they were raised by Chinamen and sold to her at a very round price. She was very bitter upon the Chinamen for charging so much for their potatoes, but confessed that they could not be bought of any one else, and could not be brought from the valleys below even at that price. Why, we asked, are they so scarce and high here? Here is an abundance of open and unoccupied lands and scores of idle and unemployed men why do they not raise potatoes and sell them to you cheaper? O, said she, with an air of disdain, white men can't do such work as that, the season is very short and the frost would kill the potatoes unless they were covered every cold night with mats and cloths and great pains and trouble taken with them. Nobody but Chinese can do such drudgery as that." This was said in all seriousness and without the thought of sarcasm. I replied "then you confess that the Chinaman is superior to the white man; that he is more able to cope with the difficulties of his situation, more patient and persevering, more intelligent in devising expedients to overcome difficulties and more successful in obtaining the desired results." She had no answer to give but continues to despise "John" for furnishing her potatoes, at the market price, which she and all her guests would have to do without but for the "curse" of cheap Chinese labor! There is a lesson in all this which the grumbling "citizen laborer" would do well to learn.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by all druggists.

Rev. Mr. Talmage Excited.

In his sermon in Brooklyn on the 12th January, Mr. Talmage said in relation to recent attacks upon him in the comic papers and police gazettes:

While some of these falsehoods may have excited your mirth, there is one that is different, because it invades the sanctity of my home. It has been stated that sixteen years ago I went sailing upon the Schuylkill river with my wife and sister, and that I allowed my wife to drown while I saved her sister, marrying her in sixty days afterward. I propose to nail this infamous lie on the forehead of every man who shall utter it, and I invoke the law to aid me. Talmage then read from a paper which he had prepared a complete account of the unfortunate catastrophe on the Schuylkill. He was in a boat with his wife and child, his own sister and her child. Knowing nothing of the dam, they were swept over it and the boat was upset. His wife was instantly sucked under by the strong current; his sister, the two children and himself were saved by clinging to the gunwale of the boat. At the time this sad accident occurred he had never seen or heard of his present wife, and was introduced to her for the first time nine months later by his brother. He would pay $100 to any responsible witness who in future would give him the name of any responsible person who dared utter this libel again.

IN MEMORIAM.

At a meeting held last evening by the Emmet Guard the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Omnipotent, in his wise dispensations, has seen fit to call from our midst John Quigley, our beloved and worthy comrade in arms, and submitting to the decree of divine justice and with all reverence for the Infinite wisdom of the Most High, we would give expression to the feelings which at this time have cast a gloom over the brightness of our camp fire; therefore

Resolved, That we, the Emmet Guard, state militia of Oregon, in the city of Portland, do recognize in the demise of our beloved and worthy comrade the loss of a brave soldier, a true friend and a trustworthy citizen, whose memory cannot be washed away by the river of time, but we will ever point with pride to the manly principles which has so endeared him to us all.

Resolved, That we, in conjunction with his numerous friends, do tender to his bereaved father, mother, sisters and brother our most heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be inserted in the DAILY OREGONIAN and Catholic Sentinel, and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

On Dec. 27th, after a lingering wasting away with consumption, Henry M. Haward, died at the residence of J. D. Capps in Oak Grove, Wasco county, Oregon, aged 21 years and three months.

Deceased was a grandson of Samuel Laughlin, of North Yamhill, and formerly resided at that place. He possessed an unusually kind and affectionate disposition, and thus secured the greatest respect and esteem of all who knew him. His untimely death will be mourned by a large number of relatives and friends.

S. D. LAUGHLIN.

At his home in Lewis county, W. T., Willis, son of Howard and C. A. Ogle, of Clackamas county, Oregon, aged 27 years.

He leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn the sudden and untimely death of an affectionate son, a kind brother and true friend, but he will be given back to them in the next world as he lived in this—unsullied.

From his loved home he hath gone,
So calm he sleeps, so still, so deep,
Thus heeding not our plaintiff moan
About his couch so low and lone.
Yet tranquil is his rest,
As we bowed our heads to the chastening rod
And stood by the side of our dead
There came to our hearts in the still voice of God
To comfort and cheer as it said,
"Crush down thy wild, rebellious grief,
Wish not to recall earth's truest and best
But rejoice that the heart of the loved one
Has found eternal and heavenly rest."
We thought, as they put him away in his bed
And hid his loved form from our view,
We couldn't leave him until the angel voice said
"He is not here, but in heaven."
From life's dreaming he hath awakened
While we, oh! we, are left
To walk life's cheerless weary way
With fainting heart that needs must pray
To rest as calm as he.
We fain would sorrow and bemoan our loss
And the grief around us would hoard,
Did we not remember the crown and the cross
And the words that came from our Lord:
"Weep not: he is not dead, but in heaven."

FROM PORT TOWNSEND.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., Jan. 20, 1879.

Much to the joy of her owners (Messrs. Waterman & Katz) and all concerned, the steam propeller Mary Taylor, after being out thirteen days from San Francisco, made her appearance on Saturday evening, the 18th inst., at 8 P. M., under the skillful management of Capt. Hinds, of this city, whose many friends were only too glad to see him again on terra firma.

On Saturday, about 2 P. M., the celebrated fast sailing yacht Nip and Tuck, while on her way from Seattle to Swinomish, with two men, two women and a little girl on board, was capsized near Point no Point during a squall, and the passengers having succeeded in getting on her keel, were tossed about at the mercy of the waves until yesterday (Sunday) forenoon when they were picked up by the little steamer Teaser (Capt. Fred Monroe) and carried to this port, where they now remain, waiting for a more pleasant day to make their excursion.

A strong south wind has been blowing for 24 hours, so that our bay has been covered with white caps.

Business is flourishing here as usual and no one growling. Yours, REPORTER.

DR. McLENNAN'S
Magnetic Institute,
153 Fourth St., Cor. of Morrison,

Is now open for the reception of patients suffering from any of the following diseases: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Cramps, Pains in the Back or Sides, Catarrh, Prolapsus Uteri, and all debility and weakness peculiar to females; Bronchitis and Asthma, Sore Throat, Loss of Voice, Piles, Goitre, Lameness, Total and Partial Paralysis, Deafness and all Nervous Diseases; Fever and Ague, Fever Sores, Spinal Diseases, Debility and loss of vigor in the male, and all weakness brought on by indiscretion or other causes. In short, wherever pain or disease exists it will yield at once to the pleasant, potent, powerful and harmless method of treatment administered at this Institute. Vital Magnetism, nature's great restorer of impaired vital energy, is the principle agent used, together with other subtle and psycological agents.

No medicine used except when upon examination it is found to be wanting, and then only such as are compounded from roots and herbs collected at the proper season, and under the right planetary influences. By this method of treatment the lame walk, the deaf hear and the blind see without using any drugs or medicine.

Special attention paid to old and chronic cases that have baffled all other healers and physicians.

There is no new feature of special importance in local monetary matters. The demand for loans on real estate shows some increase as the season elapses, but the inquiry from the shipping trade is not so extensive as was anticipated owing to the very general indisposition on the part of holders to sell, and on part of exporters to buy beyond their actual present necessities. Rates on loans and discounts on standard commercial paper are steady with no tendency to depreciate as the requirements of extensive business enterprises expected to be inaugurated the approaching spring are expected to absorb in a great measure the surplus capital of the country.

There has been as we have before noticed a good deal of complaint in local circles about the dullness of business since the new year began, but Portland is not alone in suffering a period of depression. An exchange at the close of the second week of the month speaking of the situation of monetary and trade matters in San Francisco, declares that to say business in that city is sluggish would be a very modest form of expressing the stagnation which reigns there. It is understood, however, to be only a temporary lull, as all the elements for renewed and successful activity are at hand, or within easy reach. A good and soaking rain storm of a week or ten days' duration would soon put another face on things generally. Money is plentiful in bank, and sadly in want of employment.

The produce market continues in about the same condition as at our last mention, with a fair demand for staple products at current quotations, but there is very little disposition to speculate in them. The receipts of breadstuffs show some decline, and we should not be surprised to find that in the course of a few weeks the amount of grain in sight should be found to be much diminished, as that in the warehouses on the lines of transportation is being pretty rapidly drawn out, while the country roads are in such bad condition that but little hauling is being done.

Harbour Grace, Newfoundland.

Persons suffering from impure blood, or whose health is giving away, either as ministers or those who study closely, will find Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites the material to build them up, and the tonic to keep them there.

Pugwash, N. H. DR. CLAY.

Each effort of the mind, every act of the body, will extract a volume of nervous element in proportion to the magnitude of the thought or action, and since Fellows' Hypophosphites really will supply the vis vitæ to the body, it must support the human mechanism successfully after the vigor of youth is passed.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Acute Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world-wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them; they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN, the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.
